HEAR·IT·TIZZ

Frederick Rand Rogers, the Palo Colorado pamphleteer who has been conducting an attack on the Peninsula's schools, is currently "on vacation," resting from what he seems to consider his labors. We are very glad of this...only because it gives The Spectator time to offer a Dictionary to Mr. Rogers, an author who is at times a little confusing to those whose mother tongue is English.

Now then. It must be understood that Webster is not always of much use in reading "Public Education Reform" because Mr. Rogers is reforming Webster too. These are merely the best guesses we can summon up.

Stultiloquence: This is a poser. We think it means something between a mossy stone and a senator's speech...or even, possibly an article by Rogers.

Ludicrosity: Silly-crosity, or maybe even ridiculosity.

Instanter, pronto: After considerable thought we have decided that "immediately" best defines this.

Pooh: Adjective, referring to critics of Rogers.

Alas: Present School Boards.

Character Targets: Not live bait...Mr. Rogers' ideals.

Keep steady on: To remain steadfast. (Batten down the hatches, yo, ho, ho.)

1929: The year into which the bulk of Mr. Rogers' references and Black Friday fall.

Quo Ante Bellum: The happy years Quo Ante Reform.

The rest: Things too numerous to mention like facts and instances.

Sub-sub: Raise the snorkel, we're going under-under.

Now then. We feel we have done our bit to unravel the mystery that is Rogers' prose. From now on it's up to him. Keep steady on, man...pronto, instanter!

Politics seem to be in the air plenty. The Republicans really heated local things up by trotting both U.S. Senators from California down here within a week. The local GOP enriched its coffers for the coming election too.

Besides Knowland and Nixon, Jim Holmes who will attempt to unseat Bramblett in the primaries was also around. Will Hayes, Democratic hopeful for the same Congressional seat, made a good showing at the Casa Munras yesterday.

Assemblyman James Silliman's position seems safe and sure. But State Senator Fred Weybret may have to do some campaigning. Fred Farr, Carmel lawyer, is rumored to be interested.

- - - - - - - - - -

Somewhat interested in politics himself, Corum Jackson was busy this week bringing people into his Carmel Realty Company office to register. It was an unpartisan campaign by Jackson, Republican Central Committeeman. "All I want them to do is vote," he said. About 150 new names have been added to the rolls of the enfranchised.

Parishioners of the Church of the Wayfarer were somewhat surprised to see 14 Boy Scouts troop into church last Sunday. It seems that Dr. K. Fillmore Gray and the Boy Scout movement have the same birth date.

Nobody expects much opposition to the abandonment of the Carmel Valley bus line at the hearing Monday in the Carmel Cith Hall.

SUNSET TEACHER HONORED BY CARMEL P.T.A.

Mrs. Edna C. Lockwood, second grade teacher at Sunset School, was honored with a life membership in P.T.A yesterday at the Founder's Day Meeting held in Sunset Auditorium.

The membership is awarded for outstanding service over a period of years in the field of child guidance and is given only in those years when it is felt there is a truly deserving recipient.

Mrs. James Larsen, 20th District President of P.T.A., was the speaker at yesterday's meeting which formed a part of the world-wide celebration of the 55th anniversary of P.T.A.

Mrs. Ernest Morehouse presided at the tea preceding the meeting and she was assisted by Mrs. Frank Timmins. Both women are past presidents of the Carmel P.T.A.

SINGLE CANDIDATE FOR CARMEL CITY COUNCIL

With nominations for three Carmel city council seats closing in two weeks, only one candidate has announced his intention to run. Reed Pollock, local insurance agent, is the only man in the race so far.

Councilman Andy Martin has taken out papers, but he refuses to say whether they will be circulated for him or another candidate. The other incumbents, Mayor Allen Knight and Gene Ricketts, have not announced their intentions.

The city clerk's position is also open this year. P. A. McCreery has taken out papers for Peter Mawdsley, incumbent. Also on the ballot will be the question of repealing the sales tax and a pension program for city employees.

Nomination papers must be filed by Feb. 28.

SECRETARY OF NAVY TO ATTEND SCHOOL OPENING

The Secretary of the Navy, the Honorable Dan A. Kimball, will be received with military honors at 10:40 tomorrow morning, at the U.S. Naval School. Staff and student officers will be assembled in parade formation while the 12th Naval District band plays for the ceremony marking resumption of the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School's 43rd year, at its new site on the grounds of the former Hotel Del Monte in Monterey. Rear Admiral Bertram J. Rodgers, Commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, will also attend and be one of the speakers.

Senior Navy officials at Washington, D.C. and West Coast activities, as well as presidents of universities in this area and local city, county and state officials, have been invited to attend the ceremony to be held at 11 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 16, in the school's auditorium (once the Hotel Del Monte's main dining room).

Those invited to attend the ceremony will also be invited to join in conducted tours for inspection of the school's interim establishment, which will be used while permanent buildings are being erected. Plans and architects' drawings of the first increment of the new construction, the new Engineering School, will also be on display.

The ceremony marks the reconvening of classes and the completion of a 3,000 mile transcontinental move of the Engineering School from its historic site at Annapolis, Md., to the former Hotel Del Monte, once a favorite vacation resort of the Monterey Peninsula.

Mr. Kimball, Secretary of the Navy, will be the principal speaker at the ceremony.

CARMEL RIVER AND VALLEY ROAD

RESULTS of the recent rains are still very much in evidence despite the general improvement in the weather. Top, a large piece of the Sidney Williams ranch has slipped down and onto the westbound lane of the Carmel Valley road. Williams' tool shed perched at the upper right may be next to go if further slides occur. (--Arthur McEwen photo) The lower picture, taken last Sunday, shows the tremendous flow in the Carmel River now that the river is carrying the runoff water. The channel is the farthest north it has been for years. (--Edward P. McMurtry photo)

SYMPHONY PROGRAM CHANGED

The inability of Miss Ruth Maddox to fulfill her commitment as soprano soloist with the Monterey County Symphony in its concert of February 22 has necessitated a change in the program.

In addition to the program as previously announced, the orchestra will play the Polovetzian Dances by Alexander Borodin from the opera "Prince Igor." This is in response to many requests. Also added is an orchestral transcription by Albert of the Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue by Bach.

The major work on the program, Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony, was performed here in 1948 by what Colonel Philip Schneeberger describes as the Unfinished Symphony Orchestra. The intervening years have brought the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra a proficiency and polish which should provide every listener, next Friday, with a highly enjoyable musical experience.

EIGHT to the BAR

by Ross Worsley

The poll of the year's best recordings from the standpoint of performance and engineering indicates that the young and lesser known companies have received the larger percentage of honors.

Resphigi's great success (which he lived to enjoy) was founded on his symphonic poems. One of the products of his most mature period is the Trittico Botticelliano, a musical evocation of three paintings by the 15th Century Italian Renaissance master, Botticelli. The scoring is for twelve instruments, giving a literal interpretation of peasant and pastoral melodies. This delightful work has been pressed by one of the above mentioned recording societies, where quality is the hallmark - Vanguard, Inc. The reverse of the disc is Locatelli's Concerto da Camera, a work by this late 17th Century violin virtuoso who worked in the tradition of Corelli. This work is an excellent example of the Italian Chamber Concerto of the period and is a fine recording.

R. E. B. Editions have issued another work by Heinrich Schutz (1585-1672), called "German Requiem." Arthur Mendel conducts the Cantata singers, accompanied by organ and bass viol, turning in a notable performance of a unique and beautiful work, symmetrical in melodic and harmonic structure.

Franz Schubert's Quartet for flute, guitar, viola and cello in G Major has been given a superb performance on one Period 12" long-playing record appropriate to the unhackneyed repertoire.

Two of Mozart's most decorative concerti have been performed on a single Period 12" L.P. with soloists and orchestra of the Ton-Studio, Stuttgart. The construction of both works is simple and good humored and performance and engineering are excellent.

AFGHAN TO LECTURE

Abdussattar Shalizi, the Afghan representative for loan and Morrison-Knudsen Affairs, will speak to the World Affairs Council of Monterey Peninsula this Tuesday. His topic will be Afghanistan and the United States.

Mr. Shalizi has been director of labor in Afghan government, and in 1951 came to San Francisco to supervise contracts in connection with the Technical Assistance program in his country.

The World Affairs Council is a non-profit, non-political organization devoted to studying world affairs. The talk will be given at Sunset Auditorium.

NEW FIRST THEATRE PRODUCTION

"From Rags to Riches," directed by William Shepard, from the M.S. of the George Poultney collection of old melodramas, will open on Thursday evening, February 21, at California's First Theatre in Monterey, running through the 22nd, 23rd, 24th, and Saturday nights thereafter.

The "Rags" cast includes Janet Call as Flossie; Leigh Christie as Prince Charlie; James Rutledge as Ned; Star Ellis Christie as Myrtle; Patricia Semple as Gertrude; Lucille Kiester as Mother Murphy; Shirley Rennie as the Maid; Jack Kidwell as Giles; Mel Isenberger as Dan; William Shepard as Albert Cooper; Wayne Edwards as Montgomery and doubling as Slade; Jim Harget as the Messenger.

"The Gambler's Sweetheart" will have its closing performance at The First Theatre, State Monument, Monterey, tomorrow night, February 16, when for the last time the Gambler will outwit the evil forces which have tried to steal the mine and the final curtain will ring down on virtue rewarded and lovers reunited.

Producers at the First Theatre are Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous; Rhoda Johnson designs and executes the costumes; Richard Johnson is stage technician; Kay Knudsen is in charge of lights; Eleanor Kidwell is pianist, and La Maye Isenberger is choreographer for the olio.

YOUTH FOLLIES REHEARSING

Beginning Tuesday, the Carmel Youth Center Glee Club will rehearse for the Youth Follies, to be held April 25 and 26. John Farr will direct the chorus.

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

Price tags are turning up at Fort Ord these days... although the soldiers presumably aren't doing any comparative shopping. As a part of the Army's "Cost Consciousness Indoctrination" program, equipment issued at the Fort is marked with its cost. The idea is that the trainee will have an increased respect for things issued him, and a greater appreciation of the price of materials and supplies. The soldiers are required to replace anything entrusted to them which is destroyed through negligence or waste.

An eye, too, is being kept on utilities, an item that cost the Fort one half million last year. They hope to economize on that bill by $50,000 in 1952.

Are you beset by any of the following problems: How to prepare an egg shampoo for husbands; What to do when you feel Mondayish on Tuesday; How to coax moths to eat old tuxedos, or How to deal with National Eat More Parsnips Week? The wonderful Will Cuppy provides the answers to these and many more problems of equal weight in his new book How to Get from January to December. For each day of the year, Mr. Cuppy has a bit of advice or reflection to brighten the reader's life.

The love letters of one of one of America's greatest short story writers to the man who was her lover and later her husband are now published in a new unexpurgated edition. Katherine Mansfield's Letters to John Middleton Murry have been compiled and annotated by Mr. Murry and provide a new insight into and understanding of her tragic life.

Grass Beyond the Mountains is the story of the arduous exploration of the land beyond the Itcha, Algak, and Eawnie Mountains of British Columbia in search of grazing land. The author, Richmond P. Hobson, Jr., was originally a New Yorker, who lost all his money in the market crash of 1929 and decided to fulfill a long-standing ambition to live on a cattle ranch. He moved to Wyoming and with friends he met there undertook the journey by horseback which led to the discovery of the last great cattle frontier on the North American continent and the establishment of the Frontier Cattle Co., a fabulously successful enterprise.

Gerald Brenan, who has been called the most informed, perceptive and fair-minded person writing about Spain today, has a new book called The Face of Spain. A part of this book which told of the author's search for the grave of Garcia Lorca, the Spanish poet who was killed under mysterious circumstances during the Civil War, originally appeared in the New Yorker magazine and those who read it will undoubtedly remember the beauty and poignancy of Mr. Brenan's writing.

In A Time to Remember best-selling author Lloyd C. Douglas indulges in personal reminiscences and expounds his belief in the essential goodness of mankind. The author of such highly successful novels as Magnificent Obsession, The Green Light, The Robe, and The Big Fisherman had, with the publication of the last-named book, declared his fiction writing days at an end. He found idleness unbearable, however, and so decided to tell his own story covering his entrance into the ministry and his decision in later years that he could communicate the joy of Christian living more effectively through his writing than through his preaching. He defends his work against the charge of some critics that he sees life through rose-colored glasses.

North with the Spring by Edwin Way Teale covers a naturalist's journey of 17,000 miles through 23 states covering the advance of Spring. The author, whose books have been awarded the John Burrough's medal, travelled for 130 days recording the phenomena of nature unfolded by the changing seasons, and this book has been described as his masterpiece.

A Man Called Peter by Catherine Marshall is the story of the life of Peter Marshall as told by his wife. Dr. Marshall, who wrote a best-selling book of sermons and prayers called Mr. Jones, Meet the Master, was Chaplain of the United States Senate.

All of the above books are on display currently and will circulate beginning next Monday. Readers may enter their reservations for them at the desk.

A.W.V.S. MEETING

The regular Board Meeting of the American Women's Voluntary Services will be held today at the U.S.O., Webster and El Estero streets, in Monterey.

RUMMAGE SALE REPORTED SUCCESSFUL BY A.A.U.W.

The rummage sale held on Feb. 6 and 7 by the American Association of University Women has been reported as highly successful.

Mrs. Andre Drignakovitch, Chairman of the Rummage Sale Committee, and her assistants, Miss Alice Work, Mrs. C. A. Nedderson, Mrs. Orville Rogers, and Mrs. J. B. Phillips are deserving of great credit in connection with the success of the sale, the proceeds of which are used to finance four scholarships for local girls.

COSTUME BALL NEXT SATURDAY

The exotic costume ball to be given next Saturday night, February 23, by the Carmel Art Association, will see Del Monte Lodge transformed into a setting from the Arabian Nights.

The ball, a reminder of the fabulous costume balls at Hotel Del Monte, is to be staged on the entire main floor of Del Monte Lodge and the many talents of local artists are being put to use to make the forthcoming event unusual and brilliant.

The opulent theme will be carried out in the decor, costumes, and entertainment. There will be a champagne bar on the terrace and canopied boxes for those who wish to watch the entertainment from luxurious divans. The entertainment will include sinuous dancing girls and a Middle-Eastern sultan, complete with harem.

The evening will begin at ten o'clock when the colorfully costumed guests will begin to assemble. At eleven, the pageant will be presented, to be followed by dancing to a 14-piece orchestra.

The Carmel Art Association and the Public Libraries have consented to help with costume ideas. Sheets, towels and fake jewels will make a turban. Ali Baba's robbers may even appear in the old terra cotta porch jar. Anything goes... Egyptian, African, South Sea Island, Chinese, or formal dress will be acceptable.

Mrs. John Cunningham, prominent Carmel artist, is general chairman for the affair, assisted by a large group of Peninsula artists and craftsmen.

Tickets are on sale at the Carmel Art Association Gallery, Carmel Work Center, Pebble Beach Art Gallery, Carmel Valley Art Gallery, and Lial's Music Store. General admission is $5 per couple. Boxes, which may be reserved in advance to accomodate four, six, or eight guests, will be $20, $25, and $30. Telephone the Carmel Art Association, Carmel 7-6176, for reservations.

GARDEN LECTURE

A lecture with kodachrome slides will be given by Arthur E. Navlet, a bay area nurseryman, at the regular meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Garden Club tonight.

A special discussion program, arranged especially for Stanford people attending the conference, will be conducted by Dudley Swim, Stanford Alumni Association head. This discussion period will start at 4:15 p.m.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN TO HEAR DR. MIRA GAVRILOVICH

Dr. Mira Gavrilovich will be the featured speaker at the General Meeting of the American Association of University Women to be held on Feb. 20 at 8 p.m. in the Carmel High School Library.

A.A.U.W. members will model Yugoslavian costumes following the talk.

Hostess for the occasion will be Mrs. Agnes Martineau and her co-hostesses will be Mrs. Orville Rogers and Mrs. Lynn Brooks.

DOUGLAS SCHOOL OFFICERS ELECTED

The second semester at Douglas School began January 31 and student body elections were held February 1. Colene Campbell succeeds Patsy Field as president; Sandra Six was reelected vice president. Patsy Field is the new secretary and Sam Morse III was made treasurer. Cynthia Marks is the new program chairman. Both dormitory presidents, Gwendy Guiberson and Sam Morse III, were reelected for the second semester.

Pennant winners for the week for neatness of quarters were Patsy Pell and Westy Fletcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burdick of Los Angeles paid a visit to the school last week. Their granddaughter, Lucille Sheppard, will be a Douglas camper this summer.

Social highlight of the week for upper school boarders was the party at which Mrs. William Crawford entertained Saturday for her daughter, Sandra. Sandy and her classmates enjoyed Carmel beach, a snack at the Crasfords' Pebble Beach home and a trip to the movies.

Sam Morse III was such a success in collecting and hoarding dimes for the students' March of Dimes campaign that Mrs. Isabel Gregory, bookkeeper, was able to write a good-sized check for the Fund.

Marjorie Tubbs, former nurse at Douglas Camp, who now heads the Shriner's Hospital for crippled children in Lexington, Kentucky, was a visitor at the Douglas School this week.

DEPENDENTS' TRAVEL PAY

Dependents of servicemen listed as Korean or World War II casualties can save time if they'll use the right forms in applying to the armed services for repayment of travel expenses that might be due them, Claude S. Estill, Veterans' Service Officer, pointed out.

Government-paid transportation is provided by Congress for dependents and household effects of both Korean and World War II servicemen officially reported injured, dead, missing for 30 days or more, interned, or captured, Estill noted.

"A typical case," he said, "is that of a serviceman's dependents who keep on living at his last duty station when he goes overseas. If the serviceman is later listed as a casualty and his dependents decide to return to their permanent home, they can request government transportation. If they pay for the travel themselves, they can apply for reimbursement."

Advice and assistance in requesting travel reimbursement for dependents of Korean or World War II servicemen is available at 559 Pacific street, Monterey.

INTERNATIONAL PARTY AT FIRST THEATRE

Arab and Israelite, German, Japanese, and American were among the happy youth group who attended, in good fellowship and high spirits, a gala theater party held in their honor last Saturday night at California's First Theatre. Twenty-four different countries were represented among the thirty-eight foreign students who are attending various California colleges and universities. The students were guests of Monterey Peninsula families last weekend, on their visit to our Peninsula, which ended a ten-day bus tour of California (sponsored by the National Foreign Student Association). They were welcomed wherever they went and friendship and understanding formed a sympathetic bond among the group as well as with the American friends they made during their ten-day travels.

This group of many races and creeds made last Saturday evening at the First Theatre an outstanding one. An ideal audience, their response was generous and they were quick to catch all the humor of the old fashioned melodrama "The Gambler's Sweetheart," though it wasn't presented in their mother-tongue. The students joined in the group singing of favorite American songs with a knowledge of our tunes and language that would put us to shame; and as a spontaneous return offering to the evening's olio, the students sang "My Darling Clementine" in fifteen different languages. Between each unfamiliar version, the entire audience joined the American refrain, remaining in quiet attention to hear another new rendition in a foreign voice or group of voices. The feeling of peace and unity that prevailed that evening made you very sure that there can be peace in our time.

After the show, coffee and cakes were served by the mustachioed barkeeper in the old theater's lobby. Students, audience, and players mingled to become better acquainted and, as the evening ended, students and friends said goodbye, exchanging addresses and promises to write, as well as brotherly kisses and sisterly sighs.

DR. CHARLES W. DELANEY takes his hobby seriously. By using the scientific approach, Dr. Delaney has had successful gardens wherever he has lived.

Dr. Delaney and his wife Elda moved here four and a half years ago when the doctor retired after 35 years with the Pennsylvania Railroad. They have just bought a house on Monte Verde near Santa Lucia, and making the garden is taking most of the Delaney time these days.

Born in Eagle Pass, Texas, Delaney took his AB at Baylor University and then went to the University of Pennsylvania. He picked the eastern medical school because it had outstanding clinic facilities.

While attending school, Delaney spent as much time as possible in a hospital nearby. Not being interested in athletics, the young man spent his Saturdays and Sundays there watching and picking up knowledge.

EARLY EXPERIENCE

Because the hospital was short staffed, Delaney was soon given some responsibility. Soon he was doing minor surgery. By the time he was in his third year at medical school, he was performing most types of surgery and had delivered many babies.

When he got his degree, Delaney joined the Altoona, Pennsylvania, hospital of the Pennsylvania Railroad. At that time the company's chief manufacturing and repair yards were located there. This type of work led to many injuries, and most of the doctor's work was treating the yard workmen.

The head surgeon at the hospital was a Civil War doctor. Dr. Delaney felt that often a limb was amputated when it might have been saved. Several times he asked to take over an injured man scheduled to have an arm or leg removed and saved the limb. He took over more and more cases, proving that amputation was not necessary in many cases.

In 1911, Delaney was made head surgeon of the railroad company.

DEVELOPED TECHNIQUE

It was about this time that he started working with Dr. Fred Albee of New York on orthopedic surgery techniques. The two men worked independently but constantly compared findings and results.

They were primarily interested in bone grafting. By using good bone from the shin, the grafting process would straighten a tubercular in six weeks instead of the two years necessary before grafting was used.

In fractures, which were a large part of the hospital's work, Delaney pioneered in developing the process whereby a bone dowel is put through the fractured bone. In this operation, Delaney explained, a hole is drilled lengthwise in the fractured bone, across the fracture. A dowel is shaped from a piece of shin bone and driven into the hole. The dowel keeps the fractured bone in line until it can heal.

To take bone from the patient's shin, Delaney and Albee developed an electric saw with parallel blades. It could be adjusted to cut any width or depth of bone. An important attribute was that the entire mechanism could be sterilized, motor and all.

MADE A FELLOW

For his outstanding work in orthopedics, Dr. Delaney was named a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons in 1915.

Shortly after the war, he retired and he and his wife moved to Denver. There they bought a home which was situated on a bare piece of property. With the usual enthusiasm, the Delaneys went to work and within a year their garden was one of the points on Denver's Garden Tour.

"Our gardens are a 50-50 proposition," said Dr. Delaney. "But I am charged with the scientific end." The doctor works out such matters as the proper chemical content of the soil, altering it when necessary to bring up virile plants.

Their garden is an important part of the Delaneys' life. As the doctor says, "We garden for health and happiness."

Dr. Delaney has agreed to pass on some of the knowledge of gardening he has gained during years of practice to readers of The Spectator. Starting this week his column, The Amateur Gardener, will be a weekly feature of this paper.

PLANS FOR SPRING FESTIVAL TAKING SHAPE

Six plays will be given by little theater groups on the Monterey Peninsula during the spring Drama Festival. These six groups were selected by the regional council of the American National Theater and Academy.

The April festival was outlined at an executive committee meeting this week. In addition to the plays, there will be lecturers, seminars, and children's plays given during the week April 21 to 26. It is expected that the visiting troups will visit Carmel's Forest Theater and the Playhouse, now under construction.

Of principal interest to the Peninsula theater-going public will be the six evening plays. They include "Oedipus Rex," the Greek classic, by the Hillbarn Theater of San Mateo; "Nights of Wrath," the first American performance of a new French play, by San Jose State College players; "Years Ago," a sprightly comedy, by the Barn Theater of Porterville; "Yes Is For A Very Young Man," from the pen of Gertrude Stein, by the Interplayers of San Francisco; "The Respectful Prostitute," a local revival, by the Wharf Players, hosts of the festival; and "Macbeth," the great Shakespearean tragedy, by the Reno Little Theater with the cooperation of the University of Nevada.

In addition, on the afternoon of April 21, the San Francisco Center for the Blind will present Noel Coward's "Fumed Oak."

General details of the festival remain to be worked out by the executive committee and the working committees the group has appointed.

GUIDE DOGS FOR BLIND HAS 125 WAITING TO ENTER TRAINING SCHOOL

Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. has 125 blind men and women on its waiting list to enter the Training School at San Rafael, according to William F. Johns, director of the non-profit organization which serves the blind.

"Our current membership campaign, in and near the Bay Area, is to raise funds for accepting as many of these applicants as we can--and we are setting our goal at training 65 man-dog units in 1952," stated Mr. Johns. "During the ten years of our existence, 203 blind persons have been educated to use guide dogs, and given their dogs, at no cost to them. Guide Dogs for the Blind has become widely known throughout the 11 western states, from which we accept civilian blind, and an amazing number of applications are coming in. We wish we could accept them all, but the cost of breeding, raising and training the dogs as guides, plus the cost of the four-weeks' residence education at the School comes to $1,500 a man-dog unit. We can go only as fast as our funds permit."

Mr. Johns pointed out that in educating a man or woman to work with a guide dog, the organization is doing a humanitarian work of enormous value and also an economic one, for 91 per cent of the graduates earn their own livings, and many support other members of their families. There is no limitation on a graduate's accomplishments once he is given mobility to come and go as he likes. Among those who have graduated are a judge, a minister, several lawyers, mechanics, industrial workers, writers, musicians, ranchers and men and women whose work lies in a dozen other fields.

The School in San Rafael is a unique institution in the West, and is one of two schools in the United States accredited by the Veterans Asministration for training blinded veterans. As a consequence, the Administration sends in those veterans who lost their sight in service from the entire area west of the Mississippi. The School has given 42 guide dogs to veterans. It expects a large number of applications from blinded Korean veterans, many of whom are now in rehabilitation centers.

..The Amateur Gardener..

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

We can create the most precious and rewarding things of life by just a little work and thought. The small area of the good Earth, we occupy around our homes, can be made more beautiful and appealing--which gives us pleasure and adds much to our daily lives.

A garden not only gives us beautiful flowers with their color and perfection; but it gives much more in peace of mind, strength of body, and faith to the soul. If life is to have meaning, we must fill it with wider interests, newer hopes, and greater endeavors.

People come from the ends of the earth to see this garden spot of the world. They hear the musical winds from the Pacific singing in the branches of the pines. They find here colorful flowers all the year, whose perfection is unequaled anywhere.

If we are patient and can endure a little labor and effort and a few quiet hours, we may see God there in our back yard. We may drink in, almost like a draught, new knowledge of life's meaning, new courage to face its outrageous fortunes, and a new strength for its battles.

You may say, I am not a gardener, that I do not know a thing about planting flowers.

Perhaps not; but you can try to make a garden of your own, you can find God's healing element by converting a weedy area, a neglected spot, or even have a window box. The same magic is in each of these. Are we too blind or lazy to see it?

It is better and more healing to the troubled spirit to make your own garden. All the strength and source of life on our earth comes from the Soil, Sun, and Showers. When you dig in the earth and smell its sweetness and moist fragrance you can feel new strength flowing into your body and a new peace calming the troubled surface of your mind. It is like grasping a supercharged wire willed with healing energy. It is like coming back to old and dear things from which we have wandered away, and have half forgotten. It is like finding new profound truth in old simplicities. It is rediscovering the faithfulness of Nature in God's plan, who rewards the planting of a seed with a plant no art can begin to rival. It is renewing the springs of life with cooling waters that flow from the heart of the earth, and thus we come in tune with the Infinite.

He who makes a garden twines his fingers, child-like, in the tresses of his Mother Earth and rests his troubled soul on her warm breast.

FISHING DERBY IN MAY AND JUNE

A Salmon and Deep Sea Fishing Derby will be held on the Peninsula from May 1 to June 29. Richard Friedline is general chairman of the Derby, and the Monterey Peninsula Sportsmen's Conservation Club is sponsoring the event. This local Sportsmen's Club was formed here some years ago and is directly affiliated with the Monterey County Sportsmen's Council, and the Sportsmen's Council of Central California.

These organizations are comprised of all kinds of sportsmen--hunters, fishermen, hunting dog enthusiasts, coon dog fanciers, and big game hunters.

This will be the first time that a Salmon and Deep Sea Fishing Derby has ever been put on in this area.

Thomas Lucido, Chairman of the Prize Committee, assisted by Kenneth Brooks and Ted Dodge, announces that the Salmon Derby will have a total of 110 prizes.

First prizes will be given weekly for each of the ten categories of fish, and on June 29 the Grand First, Second, and Third prizes will be given for each category.

The list of competitive fish is as follows: Salmon, Rock Cod, Ling Cod, Yellow Tail Cod, Blue Cod, Soup Fin Shark, Blue Mud Shark, Cabazone, Mackerel, Octopus.

Anybody desiring further information concerning the Salmon and Deep Sea Fishing Derby should contact Richard Friedline, phone 5-6956.
